Arrangements Complete For Pass District—Coleman Has Strong Committee.

On Monday of this week the Soldiers' Hut Fund Campaign under the auspices of the Canadian Branch of the Knights of Columbus reached this district. A general meeting was convened at Blairmore, with representatives from the Pass towns of Coleman, Blairmore, Hillcrest and Bellevue.

After discussing the cause and considering general methods, local committees were appointed for each town. The members of the local committee appointed were: E. McDonald, chairman; Messrs. Lawson, J. McDonald, Geo. Pelleier, Rev. Allan, Rev. Clay and Father McCormick, with power to add to their number.

As the period of the drive only extends over a few days, a meeting was called for Tuesday evening in the Council Chamber, at Coleman, with Mr. Lawson in the chair and Mr. T. B. Smith acting as secretary, when the business of the meeting was proceeded with. At the request of the chairman, Mr. E. McDonald outlined in a general manner the K. of C. campaign and the nature of their work: Following the example of the same organization in the U.S., the Canadian K. of C. realized that they, too, must do something for their soldiers overseas. In the States they began last year with an objective of $1,000,000, which, at the same convention, was made $3,000,000. They passed that and now they have made it $50,000,000, and are rapidly getting there. The Canadian Knights, being lower in numbers, aim at $500,000. Their purpose is exactly the same as the American Knights and the Y. M. C. A.—to provide shelter, wholesome recreation for the Canadian soldiers, and to endeavor to supply to some extent for their needs, physical and spiritual. Although the Canadian Knights cannot go as far as the American Branch to supply everything free of all charge, yet they do not propose one cent of profit, and everything is to be at absolute cost, all expenses being incurred by the organization. Besides, the Canadian Bank of Commerce is the financial transmitting agency, thus insuring that the funds will find their proper destination.

Although a Catholic organization, the Huts are not confined to Catholic soldiers alone, as the motto over each door is "Everybody welcome." With the work thus briefly outlined, it was heartily endorsed by several present, chiefly by Mr. A. Cameron and Rev. D. K. Allan, urging upon all the necessity of support and co-operation in so worthy a cause.

Plans were then discussed and adopted to give every citizen an opportunity to do something for the needs of the Canadian soldiers in the nature of recreation for mind and body, and to show again on this occasion their generous spirit.

It is proposed to close the Coleman campaign with a social evening on Wednesday, Sept. 25, and provide a further opportunity to help along a good cause. The soldier offers his life, let us offer him all the comforts we can.

Red Cross Shipments.

The following shipment was made from Coleman to the Central Branch Red Cross Calgary on Sept. 9th:

38 Pairs socks.
56 Dressing covers.
90 Personal property bags.
90 Cotton blenders.
50 T. bandages.
36 Pillow slips.
30 Pairs bed-wraps.

All interested in the work of the Red Cross are invited to attend the 4th annual meeting to be held Oct. 4th at 8 p.m. at the Council Chambers.

Mrs. Rose M. Dunlop Sec. Treas.

Funeral of John Stout.

The funeral of Mr. John Stout took place on Friday, Sept. 13. A Masonic service was held in the home at 4:15 p.m. Summit Lodge, Coleman, officiated at the service and there was a large turnout of the brethren from Hillcrest, Blairmore and Coleman.

A public service was held in the Institutional church at 5 p.m. The church was well filled, showing the high esteem in which Mr. Stout was held and also evidencing sympathy for Mrs. Stout and family in their sad bereavement.

Rev. D. K. Allan officiated. The service was most impressive. The Dead March in Saul was played at the close by Mr. Emerson.

The remains were laid to rest with full Masonic honors.

The following sent wreaths: Sentinel Lodge, A.F. & A.M., Hillcrest.

Summit Lodge, A.F. & A.M., Coleman.

International Coal & Coke Co. staff. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Young, Lethbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Evans, Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Moore, Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Johnson, Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Pinkney, Blairmore.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Morgan, Frank.

School Roll of Honor

To be Unveiled.

The roll of honor of the Coleman school will be unveiled on Monday, Sept. 23, at 4 o'clock sharp. Short addresses will be delivered by the three clergymen and the principal of the school. Special music has been prepared by the pupils for the occasion. It is expected the stores will close for an hour to permit all to attend. The Roll will be unveiled by Jean Guerin, brother of Jules Guerin who paid the supreme sacrifice in Belgium.

Red Cross Tea

Gratifying Success.

The tea given at the residence of Mrs. Fraser last Saturday was very successful. Tea was served on the veranda, which was tastily decorated with the flags of the Allies, and red and white asters were the table decorations. The results of $22.00 for the Red Cross funds speaks for itself in regard to the success of the event.

Don't Miss the Ground

Floor in This Case.

Gratifying progress has been made in connection with the formation of a curling club and the building of a rink, the project being received with enthusiasm, evidently everyone realizing that some such form of winter recreation is absolutely necessary.

The committee will wait on you one of these days so as to be prepared to join the glad throng. Remember curling is a game for everybody, neither age nor sex being a bar. It is the best mixing proposition on earth, and will prolong life in a mining town especially, indefinitely.

While under ordinary circumstances you will be called on in the next few days you can assist greatly by handing your name to H. C. McBurney. It is a big job to call on everyone and submit the proposition.

W. D. Lawson has purchased a new Grey-Dort car, and has thus joined the ranks of the "Automobile" owners.

HUNS ARE Adepts IN PREPARING HORRORS FOR THE HELL OF WAR

INVENTED POISON GAS ABOUT EIGHT YEARS AGO

That the Germans Long Since Had in Mind the Barbarous Plan Of Making Use of Poisonous Gas to Overcome Their Enemies Is Well Established

That the Huns long ago had in mind the barbarous idea of using poison gas to overcome their enemies is a well established fact, confirmed by their own testimony. The first application of the use of such agents was in the design of a gun to protect them, patented by the Krupp company in 1910. A London illustrated paper of August 10, 1915, reproduced the plan fitted for position work and mounted for use in the field and a fanciful illustration of the piece in action firing from a slight elevation upon a body of Orientals who were watching in agonizing agony under the strange attack.

Thus, eight years ago, in the quiet old days that now seem like ancient history, the Huns were already at work on the invention and preparing to suppressorize a new horror upon the hell of war. The general public ignored the discovery. Military men noted it as a theoretic possibility of annihilation, but little interest, something like the Chinese "stink-pots," never dreaming that its use was contemplated in actual warfare against civilized nations. But the Hun, like the dog, is born with a pack instinct, and against ruthless savagery hordes who would recognize no law of humanity and no tenderness for wounded or captives. War departments saw the designs and the brief notices passed in German newspapers, and the Kriegstecknische Reichsamt, clipping them out, filed them away in their pigeon holes and forgot them.

But Berlin never drowsed over the invention. Those were the days when the kaiser was sent to the Orient and his policy as a new "Redemeer to revivify the Modern world." Berlin-to-Bagdad" was becoming more than a dream and the military caste, the doctors, the German people was actively trying to please its imperial master.

The doctrine that "might makes right" was firmly entrenched in Germany and all means were recognized as legitimate to extend her world power.

Secretly in the German laboratories the her professors were perfecting the new application of poison gas in warfare. Secretly because even this Hague Peace Convention had condemned the use of such barbarous methods. In both sessions, that of 1899 and of 1907, the statesmen recognizing the growth in pertinacity to be played by chemistry in the science of explosives, had pronounced in advance the use of such weapons to be contrary to international law. Little the Hun cared about the Hague Convention or divine, their ambitions, and hence experiments were continued on the new offensive weapon.

General Friedrich von Bernhardi talks about it quite frankly in his book, which with unconscious cynicism he has entitled "How Germany Makes War." Writing in September 1914, he says:

"Kämpfen will hately constructed a contrivance for throwing bombs that probably will be of much service. The bomb filled with high explosives and fixed to a guidance wire, which is in highly compressed form, rushes out."

The success of a cloud attack like that at Ypres depends largely on the wind. The gas is dissipated before it can reach the enemy, or, if too light, the gas mixes with so much air that its effect is greatly reduced. The limits of wind velocity are considered to lie between four and twelve miles. The direction of the wind, of course, the main consideration.

Jerusalem Is Now Clean City

Benefits of British Government Become More and More Apparent in Palestine

Importation by the British government of oil for irrigation machinery and provision for transport saved the country from a famine and from disaster, according to Cairo despatches to the London Times. Similar steps, it is said, are being taken to help other industries and a special organization of the provincial administration has been established under Sir Charles Money. This organization controls all the occupied territory of Palestine.

The experiments were continued with redoubled ardor during all the time that the kaiser was rattling his sabre, threatening France in Africa, invading Russia by supporting Austria in her annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and obtaining from England for the sake of peace valuable concessions regarding the Bagdad railway. The results of the experiments were not found, could be projected from containers as well as fired from a gun or dropped from a hand grenade. But it remained unused to the great advantage of the British, who had no task better than the killing of their fellow creatures.

Then began the great war. Sweeping forward irresistibly, the Germans expected to win the war in nine months. It was quite a shock when they were hurried back to the Marne. Then Kitchener's contemptible flank army hung on to their right flank all that hard winter of 1914, establishing a line of fortifications. Ypres like a thorn in the German side.

The front became stabilized and the opportunity had arrived to use the new weapon, which was to slaughter whole armies with no risk to the attacker, instead of vanquishing them in a fair fight with no saving.

Substitutes for Wheat Flour

A supply of substitutes for wheat flour in Canada is being rapidly augmented. The Canadian government has installed a committee to purchase corn flour, cornmeal, oat flour and oatmeal, at the rate of 7,000 barrels a day. Two mills to produce 200 barrels of substitute flour per day are being installed in London and Fenchurch, respectively.

The Lurking Danger

Sensations of a Helpless Onlooker as a Ship Is Sent to the Bottom

I had climbed to the rugged crest of the rocky headland and lay back-broken on the rocks. All the "swallowish" of the sea far below and by occasional mournful cries of the great gulls, writes British correspondent.

Peering over the edge of the cliff I could see the nests of cormorants on the rocks a hundred feet below and irregular rows of great birds perched like small dead seals about them. In the sea dead ahead of them, almost as the Mediterranean, there was a faint shimmer of heat haze, and as far as the eye could reach the great blue waters were unbroken save the ripples of the waves well out from the bows following the same course but some distance apart.

Here at last I had "away from the war," I reflected, as I lazily watched the two steamers go by. It was difficult to believe that, notwithstanding the guns were still roaring, that millions of men were still engaged in slaughter . . .

The sudden, totally unexpected sound of a violent explosion brought me up with a jerk. The rocky cliffs flung back the echoes of the loud, crackling and screeching in alarm.

From one of the vessels a great burst of smoke and steam had gone up, she had keeled over and was staggering drunkenly, and in a flash realized that she had been torpedoed.

From the second vessel, some distance away, there came a sudden spout of flame, followed quickly by the "boom" of another, another and another.

She was zigzagging through the water now at top speed, but I could see the splashes in the sea as the shells from her gun tell. A pause, another "boom" and then another, another.

The submarine was evidently heading back to the ship which had been torpedoed—just in time to see the last of her, for she was sinking fast, and almost as I looked she tilted and was gone.

I found myself perilously near the edge of the cliff, raging at my own helplessness, unexpectedly the spectator at a grim tragedy, and unable to render the slightest aid to the victim. I found myself cursing that second vessel for steaming on, yet knew if she stopped she might share the fate of her companion.

There was a hole in the sea, close to where the torpedoed ship had sunk, revealed itself presently as a ship's boat, and I strained my eyes to watch it, rightly surmising that it contained the survivors of the crew of the lost vessel. It circled around for a time, then I saw the sun glinting on cars as the men in the boat began to row towards the shore. Not a glimpse did I get of the boat which might have been a submarine although I had eagerly searched the waters with my eyes from the first.

I sat down limply. The gulls were still wheeling and screaming above and the feelings of despair alone, as bright as ever, and as blue as before, but for me the peace of the place had departed. Even on the rocky headland, far from the haunts of men, the war had come home to me in all its horror and poignancy.

The Spirit of Sparks

Braive Wireless Operator Sticks to Post Until the End

Mr. Godfrey Isaacs, of the British admiralty board, tells the following story of the valour of a wireless operator, popularly known as Sparks.

He was some 140 miles from the water after which the boat fell off to the starboard, broadside on to the sea. The master adds: "I fired two other shots, but they both missed as the submarine had exploded astern. Afterwards a rat-squall set in, and the submarine was lost to sight at about 1.30 p.m."

The steamer continued on her course, and was presently met by two destroyers which had come in answer to her SOS. One of these proceeded to escort her, while the other went in search of the submarine.

An Exciting Sea Battle

Story of a Submarine Attack on Two Vessels and the Result

Life aboard a merchant vessel is far more exciting now than it was five years ago.

The following story tells of an encounter with a submarine: When they first sighted the submarine it was just after dark, the moon being, and too dark to see much. The German opened fire, but the darkness was against him, and, for the time being, the merchantman succeeded in shaking him off. The Hun, not to let him again until 5:30 a.m., when he appeared astern of the steamer, and began to chase her, firing a broadside as he rapidly overhaulled her.

The master manœuvred his ship skilfully and reserved fire, the enemy being out of range. This was the state of affairs for the next ten minutes, when, at 5:30 a.m., the master opened fire with trained for service in France. This makes a total army of over 450,000. This is much less than the total enlisted Canadian force, but many of those who volunteered for services overseas were discharged before leaving the country, as the stricken medical examinations at home wedded them out.

Canadian entered the war with a regular army of only 3,000 men. At the beginning of last month she had sent overseas not less than 390,000 men, and, at this, 500,000 men, and on the same date, 60,000 men had been trained for service in France.

Canadian soldiers to the number of 45,000 have given their lives to the cause. Of these, 27,040 have been killed in action; 9,280 have died of wounds; 2,225 have died of disease; 5,342 are presumed to be dead.

The names of 13,000 soldiers have appeared in the casualty lists as wounded or sick between Nov. 1, 1914, and April 1, 1915.

In addition to gifts to these organizations, contributions have been made by the Dominion and provincial governments, municipalities, corporations and private individuals for a wide range of objects, totalling $18,000,000.

The grand total, therefore, of gifts from the people of Canada for war purposes, as nearly as it can be estimated at present, is $90,000,000.

This is a splendid figure; it amounts over eleven dollars per capita of our population.

ing toward them along the ground under a gentle wind from the German line. It reached the trenches and in the moment the effect was tremendous. Men fell, convulsed with pain, as before a reaping machine. Within a few minutes the whole battle was covered with groaning, dying men. Those on the fringe of the cloud were impaled on bayonets, cut down prisoners. Those behind fled on seeing the devastation ahead. Six thousand dead were left on the ground and a big gap was torn in the British line. For the latter, the Germans themselves did not appreciate the tremendous effect of their attack. Canadians on the left rallied and closed the gap, charging through the remains of the gas cloud itself.

Men were taken to the British hospital, the kaiser's savagery hordes who would recognize no law of humanity and no tenderness for wounded or captives. War departments saw the designs and the brief notices passed in German newspapers, and the Kriegstecknische Reichsamt, clipping them out, filed them away in their pigeon holes and forgot them.

CANADA HAS A PROUD RECORD COVERING FOUR YEARS OF WAR

COVETED HONORS WON BY HER BRAVE HEROES

Dominion Has Furnished an Army of Over Four Hundred and Fifty Thousand, and of These Forty-three Thousand Have Given Their Lives to the Cause of Freedom

Canada's achievements in the four years of the war are briefly reviewed in the following statement given out by the director of public information at Ottawa.

Canada entered the war with a regular army of only 3,000 men. At the beginning of last month she had sent overseas not less than 390,000 men, and on the same date, 500,000 men, and on the same date, 60,000 men had been trained for service in France. This makes a total army of over 450,000. This is much less than the total enlisted Canadian force, but many of those who volunteered for services overseas were discharged before leaving the country, as the stricken medical examinations at home wedded them out.

But lending money with certain securities and with a good rate of interest is one thing, and giving it outright is another. Not only have the people lent the money, but they give it gratis. Countries agree to exist for the provision and equipment of supplies and comforts of all kinds for our soldiers overseas and for the care of their dependents.

These have been generously supported. The Canadian Red Cross subscriptions now total more than $40,000,000. The Canadian Red Cross has had contributions in cash and kind amounting to $18,000,000; the British Red Cross more than $6,000,000; the Belgian Red Cross over $4,000,000.

In addition to gifts to these organizations, contributions have been made by the Dominion and provincial governments, municipalities, corporations and private individuals for a wide range of objects, totaling $18,000,000.

The grand total, therefore, of gifts from the people of Canada for war purposes, as nearly as it can be estimated at present, is $90,000,000.

Three Francs To See Verdun

Commodore of Famous Citadel Has Vision of Future Tourists

It was the colonel in command of the citadel who suggested the idea of Verdun as a mecca for tourist parties after the war.

"Here they will come," he chuckled, "and shiploads of tourists from all over the civilized world to visit this historic spot. They will passionately collect every old piece of shrapnel or cap or exploded cartridge, every stick, every brick, every stone. And when all is snatched up doubtless our ingenious guardians of the citadel will resolve the sacred ground with a huge artificial crop from a huge factor established under the name of 'Twilights'."

"They will charge let me see—three francs admission." And the colonel laughed heartily over his prophecy.

A Battlefield Meeting

New York Woman Taking Care of Wounded Sons

A New York woman attached to the American Red Cross happened to be in Paris and volunteered to help in taking care of the wounded coming from the battlefield. She was working busily when startled by a loud cry of "Mother!"

The woman was Mrs. John G. Cox, a young lieutenant in the United States army. He had been wounded in the leg by shrapnel. The first news she had had that her son was engaged in the battle was when she saw him. She obtained permission to accompany him to a hospital. After seeing that he was attended to, she went back to the station to cheer, as she said, for the soldiers, instead of finding a mother to welcome them.

The mother is a prominent social worker in New York and has been doing Red Cross relief work among the refugees in France. Her work usually keeps her in the south of France.

Health cannot be looked for in the child that is subject to worms, because worms destroy body by creating intestinal diseases that retard development and cause serious weakness. Miller's Worm Powders expel worms and are so effective in their action that the system of life is suffered, and rest is healthfulness, all the discomforts and dangers of worm infection are removed, and satisfactory growth is assured.

Hadn't Exceeded Speed Limit
At the evening meal Willie was dosing of his soup with speed and noise.

"Willie!" said his mother in a reprimanding tone.

Willie knew immediately what his mother meant and, assuming an injured ear, replied: "Aw, I wasn't going half as fast as I could." Ladies' Home Journal.

350 Airplanes Every Month

Board Has Placed Contract for Latest Type of Engines

The number of Canadians who have joined the Royal Air Force, and its predecessors, the Royal Naval Air Service and the Royal Flying Corps since the outbreak of the war is not available for publication owing to military reasons. The same secrecy, however, is not applied to the other activities in Canada in connection with the development and maintenance of the allies air service.

In January of last year, the imperial munitions board, through Canadian Airplanes, Ltd., commenced the construction of airplanes for training purposes in Canada at the national factory, where the output of flying machines is now greater than ever before. The present capacity of the plant is 300 machines per month, which, with the spares turned out, is equivalent to 350 machines monthly.

The total number of machines manufactured to the end of last May, together with the spares, was two thousand.

The number of employees engaged at this factory is 1,250, and instead the plant has been engaged in constructing a number of bombing planes for the United States navy, showing how closely the two allied countries of North America are cooperating in their effort to beat the Hun.

The imperial munitions board has placed a contract for the construction of the latest type of the latest improved types of high-power airplane engines to be used in equipping fighting planes for service at the front. This is another substantial development for a country as young as Canada, the airplane making industry, as this particular design of engine represents the highest class of workmanship attained in any machine of this nature yet produced.

No engines are manufactured at the plant, but are supplied from various outside sources and assembled and mounted there. The engine materials are being taken into the construction of the machines—apart from the engines—are spruce, pine and high-grade linoleum, all of which are used in the manufacture of the wings. A large number of women are employed at the plant in this capacity.

The bodies of the machines are composed of the wooden frame covered with canvas. The seating space is protected by an aluminum frame, and the propellers are made of mahogany.

In connection with the training of Canadians as airmen, the imperial munitions board has secured surplus aircraft, erected buildings and furnished equipment necessary for the carrying on of the work of the Royal Air Force at its various flying centers, including Camp Borden, Armstrong Heights, Leaside, Camp Mowat and Beamsville.

What We Have Gained

Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Germans Rendered Harmless

As the last forces advanced from the right, the forces in front of Amiens, we heard a man ask what was the gain of taking these shot-armor helmets; to him they were but heaps of ruins surrounded by a dead wasteland. Unfortunately, we are not a few optimists in our midst—most of the young optimists are fighting; brave, faithful souls that they are.

They were wasting precious lives and squandering the nation's resources for the barren honor of driving a horde of barbarians out of wretched villages, then, indeed would the operation be a needless waste if the Germans did not remain to defeat the German you must kill, kill and keep on killing, until his reserved mett and his line of ancestors are exterminated. To accomplish this our men search these ruined homes and devastated places where the enemy lurks, hidden in trench, cellar and dugout, and machine-guns, poison gas and flame-towers, and here our lads meet him hand to hand.

During the most recent fighting on the front, the British and Americans have captured at least five thousand Germans, who must have killed outright as many more, while, judging by the experience of past encounters, the wounded amount to three times the number of those for whom this British man, who makes solid success always looks further than the simple commercial transaction.

Suppose a man is in the business of making nails. If he buys so much iron as is needed to make a nail, and that iron is to be brought into shape with flat heads and sharp points at a defined distance between each other, and then sells them as nails at a price which will hire him, make him after paying all his costs, he makes a profit, but he is not a real business man.

It is necessary, and it is expected that a nail-maker should do more than he does. He should see those nail-makers who buy the kind of bars or boxes for transportation, so that they will arrive in respectable condition. He should see those very men, who buy pieces of wood, a building, and he should see those same nails forming a small but vitally important part in holding that building together, upon which condition the safety of many human beings depends. The preservation of much solid value in commodities might easily depend.

If he sees so far, he will make better value and get higher prices and more profits. In a word, better business. The nail-man will gain a medium for changing the shape of bar iron in return for laborer's pay, and will become a business man who undertakes his due responsibilities in the world, receiving compensation according to his power.—G. E. Whitehouse in Forbes Magazine.

Magnificent Cup Offered For the Best Wheat

Farmers Will Be Eager for the Distinction of Winning This Cup

The department of colonization and development of the Canadian Pacific Railway announces that it will award a silver cup value at five hundred dollars for the best bushel of hard spring wheat exhibited at the International Fair at Kansas City, Mo., October 16-26, 1918. All farmers in Western Canada who have good hard spring wheat will be interested in this announcement, it is hoped that among them will be found the successful competitor.

Wheat has become a vital factor in the conduct of the war, and the railway wants to help in this way to encourage production of the best varieties. At the same time it is hoped that this competition will focus attention upon the important food-producing possibilities of Western Canada. Canadian farmers have been winners of many competitions at the International Soil-Products Exposition and the winning of this cup may be one of the greatest triumphs to be attained.

It is expected that boards of trade, agricultural societies, farmers' organizations and other public bodies throughout Canada will encourage their members in seeking that the very best bushel of wheat in each of their respective districts is entered in this competition. Individual farmers also do not need to wait for an opportunity to win this cup. Particulars as to the exhibit may be had by addressing Robert J. C. Stead, Publicity Agent, Department of Colonization and Development, C.P.R., Calgary.

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING HOT WEATHER

More little ones die during the months of June, July and August than during any other months of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give immediate relief the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in homes to prevent such trouble.

An occasional dose of the Tablets will cure the short, sharp bouts of diarrhoea or if these troubles come suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will cure the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Apache Scouts Now in France

The Apache scouts mentioned with credit by General Pershing because of their good work on the Marne are now green recruits in the Army.

They are to begin with descendants of scouts who took part in the campaign against the famous Chief Geronimo, in which the present commandant of the Apaches, Lt. Col. E. P. Fitzgerald Force in France, as a second lieutenant, saw his first service. In the second place, they received part of training in the jungle of Mexico under the general command of Mexican guerrillas in 1916. General Pershing is not so slow to say does not permit his Apaches to descend to German methods of warfare.

Hun Name for U. S. Troops

German War Correspondent Tells Stories of Deeds of Daring

"Satan" is the pet name for American soldiers among the men of the American army, according to a letter written by Lieutenant Rank, who as "officer war correspondent," writes for German papers stories of individual deeds of bravery by German soldiers, names added to the光荣录, and occupations given as tending to encourage local patriotism.

In a letter to The Dusseldorf Nachrichten he tells of skirmishes between a patrol of men from the 17th American regiment, who were given a running start over a steep hill, and a German patrol who had been giving the Germans much trouble. The Americans were hidden behind craters, he says, and stalked each other for fifteen hours, until the sound of the gun made hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, the common name for inflammation of the mucous surfaces of the nose. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the nose.

K. of C. HUT DRIVE

The Knights of Columbus hut drive is worthy of and will undoubtedly receive generous support from both individuals and communities throughout Canada. The efforts is wholly in the interests of the men at the front, and, while much has been done in this direction, too much more cannot be added to public efforts in behalf of our soldiers. At the utmost those of us who are at home have not made any sacrifices in comparison to the men who are fighting and dying in France.

AUSTRIA'S PEACE OFFER

The Allies at large do not regard Austria's peace offer seriously, but simply as a matter of expediency in dealing with her own people, who are undoubtedly, nearly at the end of their war efforts. The Allied nations are in no humor at the present time to permit any diplomatic victories on the part of the Central European powers.

SUNDAY JOY RIDING

Naturally the selection of Sunday as the best day on which to save gasoline recognized the fact that this was the day of all days on which pleasure riding was indulged in. Those who advance the suggestion that this is the only day on which they have time to use their cars are getting right at the heart of the thing. If they decide they will not omit the Sunday outing during the period of gasoline shortage they are violating the principle of the request to save it. Undoubtedly it involves the sacrifice of pleasure, but that is exactly what was aimed at, and failure to effect the necessary saving in this way, will almost assuredly result in restrictions that will enforce it.

Canada Food Board Says:

In some quarters it has been suggested that Canadians be put on rations and not on their honor regarding food.

The Canada Food board says:

Do householders in Canada seek to evade the food regulations? Are the merchants of Canada conniving at the evasion of the food regulations? Let us see about that.

The main objective of the Canada Food Board is to supply Great Britain and the Allies with vital foods. With this in view food regulations are made which, if respected by the people of Canada, will enable Canada to keep faith with the Allies on food.

Do the people of Canada want to keep faith with the Allies on food? They do. Are the people of Canada keeping faith with the Allies on food? They are.

To take a position is to suggest that the people of Canada would rather keep their pre-war food habits than keep faith with the Allies on food. No true Canadian is breaking the regulations of the Canada Food Board for he knows those regulations are made in order that Great Britain and the Allies and the Canadian Army at the front may be properly fed. Who of us will eat what should be conserved for the Canadian Army at the front?

The hearts of the people of Canada are sound and in this war to a finish.

WEEK OR WEEK?

An old gentleman walked up to the pretty girl attendant at the counter of a daily newspaper office a few days ago and said:

"Miss, I would like to get copies of your paper for a week back."

"You had better get a porous plaster," she abstractedly replied. "You get them just across the street."—Chicago Daily News.

THE INSPIRED COMPOSITOR.

Even the lowly comma, when misplaced, may be the cause of disaster. Of this no better instance can be found than that where the printer, setting up a little story, asserts:

"The two young men spent the early part of the evening with two young ladies; and after they left, the girls got drunk."—Chicago Daily News.

of its employers, and the question naturally arises. "How far can this sort of thing go before the last condition is worse than the first?" The general impression is growing rapidly that increases of this kind will soon have reached a limit. It was the last straw that broke the camel's back.

An event of much importance to both parents and children took place last Friday in the form of a School Fair, six schools competing. We had our first fair in 1917 which was a small affair compared to this one,
and we hope they will keep on increasing in size and quality from year to year, as it is a splendid training for our young people.

The school work and hand work shown by the different schools were all good exhibits, but the cooking and vegetables were wonderful—when we consider that they were all the work of public school children.

The races in the afternoon were all keenly contested by the children. The weather was perfect, and the day one that

Parrots as Air Sentinels

Behavior of Certain Animals Under War Conditions

An English writer has made some interesting observations on the behavior of certain animals under war conditions. From him we learn that parrots were employed as sentinels at the Eiffel Tower in Paris. They could be first upon the lookout of an approaching aircraft at least twenty minutes before it could be seen by the naked eye. These birds, however, grew "bored," after a while, and ceased to be dependable. Please note, too, were willing to give warning at night when an airplane approached, screaming and chattering noisily. It is also stated that hares, partridges and pheasants were often observed near the front-line trenches in search of food—which they got if the rats didn't eat it first. It would seem that war has had no effect on them.

Tribute to Railway Troops

Canadian Railway Troops Can Fight as Well as Build Railways

Singular testimony how Canadian railway troops can fight as well as build railways, showing the conferment of a bar of the Distinguished Service Order on Lt.-Col. Frederick Fieldhouse Clarke of Toronto.

In an attack lasting four days he organized six regiments from his battalion, making all arrangements for the ammunition to be brought on our lorries," says the Gazette. This unit was entirely self-contained, "which they responded for volunteers, the splendid manner in which the defence was organized and the coolness and enthusiasm displayed by all rank were largely due to courage, inspiring example and fine leadership of their commanding officer.

A Tale of Two Cities

"The Marine defeat," says a speaker, "was a glorious triumph, a brilliant and heroic defense of our country." Such outbreaks of utter desolation and downheartedness never before were witnessed."

Contrast this with the courage, cheerfulness and unswerving devotion shown by the Paris which has practically been under the German guns for four terrible years and you will have an illuminating insight into the characters of these two peoples—Kansan City Star.

A Deed of Mercy

The Savage Darkness in Which Our Days are Plunged

As Hindenburg and the Kaiser came down, as we read, from Mont d'Orif, during the recent offensive, they saw on the edge of a crater two wretches lying there. The former ordered that they should be cared for; their wounds were bound up and they were given brandy, and brought round from unconsciousness. That is the German account of it, but it may be true. It was a kindly act.

Probably had it not been for this, the two men would have died among those desolate craters; no one would have known, nor no one could have been blamed it.

The contrast of this spark of imperial kindness, against the gloom of the background of the war that the Kaiser made, is a pleasant reminder to us of the times that illumine for only a moment the savage darkness in which our days are plunged. It was a kindness that probably will long be remembered by him. Even, who knows but that when most he needs it his reward for it will be given him. For Judas, they say, once gave his cloak in his youth, out of compassion to a poor beggar who sat shivering with ague, in rags, bitter in need. And the years went by and Judas forgot his deed. And long after, in Hell, Judas, they say, was given the Devil's respects and told of every year he had done so long since in his youth. And every year he goes, they say, for a day and cools himself among the Arctic bergs after every year for a century after century.

Perhaps some sailor on watch on a misty evening, blown far out of his course, may to the north, save some drowning shipwrecked sailors or heard floating by, or heard some voice in the dimness that seemed like the voice of man, and came home with this weird story. And perhaps as the story passed from lip to lip men thought justice in it to believe it true. So it came down the centuries.

With sailors ages hence, on dinner evenings, or nights when the wind is high and uncanny, see a lonely figure sometimes on the loneliest part of the sea, far north of where the Lusitania sank, gathering up the dead. Will he be seen hugging a crag or leaping in his self, helmet, cuirass and ice-pale-blue through the mist, and will they question him, meeting on those bleak seas? Will it answer, "Well, I am the spirit of the seals, he will, and ice flows grinding, and strange birds lost upon the wind that night, or will it speak to them in those distant skies and tell them how it stuns, betraying them?"

It will be a grim, dark story in that lonely part of the sea, when he confesses to sailors, blown too far to the north, the dreadful things he plotted against the world, and when he is seen to be told from sailor to sailor. Queer taverns of distant harbors will know it well. Not many will care to be at sea that day, and few will risk their lives by strength of will on the hair's night to another part of the sea.

Expect, for all the grimness of the pale-blue phantom, with cuirass and helmet, a blinding career on deadly icebergs, and yet for a moment the wrong the he did again, the children and all the good ships gone, yet will he go back to the mariners meeting his fate again. Will he be told of the courage he has earned, of the kindness he did to the wounded men. Are men, and when a soul goes from kindness will seem to them well deserved.

Mothers can easily know when their children are troubled with worms and the loss of time in applying the best of remedies. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

High Grade Butter

High Standard of Dairy Products Shown at Western Exhibitions

Visitors to the exhibitions in Western Canada have been struck by the remarkably high and uniform standard of butter made in the prairie provinces. In Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba creameries competed. The butter produced in these prairie provinces was especially favorable, the judge having a difficult problem to solve in making the award. Of the eight prairie provinces, only one point separated the second from the first of that last. The judge is said to have remarked that after eliminating the first ten samples, another class could be made of the second ten, and all of them would have ranked as first class commercial butter.

The uniform grade which has been reached in the butter produced in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba is the result of the efficient system of grading employed in these provinces, under the supervision of the respective departments of agriculture. The quality is due to the country—its excellent soil, its great variety of grains and grasses, its pure water, making it an ideal country for dairy cattle. No wonder the output of butter of Western Canada, ever increasing as it is, can scarcely keep pace with the demand.

The Old Girl is Game

Britain Has Been a Good Neighbor to the United States

We owe England a cheer for this. The old girl is game. She has, in the nautical phrase of one of her own sailors, "held her ground" closer to the wind for us than a man could expect off his own married wife. She has stood, as at every crisis from the start, her destroyer ready and battaled the submarine at a time when it seemed that monster might dispute our passage. She sent us coal last winter when thousands of our ships were held up in our own harbors for want of fuel. Let's not forget England's good neighbor and a good ally right through the time when most of the flowers we were sending down to our co-star, La Belle France. Let's not forget that she never failed to join her voice to ours in acclimating that wonderful people—and kept right on doing hard, practical, hardy jobs for us.—Kansas City Star.

Where He Got the Other
A Boer who fought with the British forces in the East African campaign was recently operated on for extensive gall-bladder trouble. An English surgeon remarked to him, "By the by, we took two bullets out of you. Did you know there were two?" "Oh, yes," replied the Boer; "I got one from the Germans and the other from you beggars at Colenso!"

THE FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE

Pure blood is the body's first line of defense against disease. Strong, healthy blood not only repels the germs of invading germs, or destroy the germs themselves. That is why many people exposed to disease do not contract it. Those whose blood is weak and watery are more liable to infection. Everybody may observe that healthy, red-blooded people are less liable to colds and grippe, than pale, listless people. Even the bloodless people, at slight exertion, who have poor appetites, and who wake up in the morning as tired as when they went to bed. With a weak, watery, gift chiefly derived from bloodlessness, the trouble also affects both boys and men. It simply affects girls and women to a greater extent because there is a greater demand upon their blood supply.

To renew and build up the blood there is no remedy that can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They tone up the heart, restore the blood vessels, build up the red blood and strengthen the arteries, put color in the cheeks, give refreshing sleep and drive away that unnatural feeling. Plenty of sunlight and wholesome food will do the rest.

You can get them with Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, and red feed and strengthen the arteries, increase the appetite, put color in the cheeks, give refreshing sleep and drive away that unnatural feeling. Plenty of sunlight and wholesome food will do the rest.

"I'll be delighted to join you," Jack was the reply. "But why not come up with the honor and get me?" "The young husband's name is Tom, he spends his evenings at home now."

And his wife wears a queer smile when he isn't looking at her.—Clinical Inquirer.

U. S. Shipping Off Fat

Less Adipose Tissue in Bodies and Head-Pieces

A health expert out on the Pacific coast furnishes the interesting estimate that the American people are dragging around 200,000,000 pounds of superfluous fat with them. The experts have been busily occupied in ascertaining what they applied before the war. It is highly probable that before we entered the war the American people were carrying around with them more than 200,000,000 pounds of unnecessary adipose tissue.

But a remarkable change has come since we entered the war. The American people have been getting rid of their fat. They have been stripping themselves for action, they have been thinking harder than ever. They have been adjusting their point of view, their habits of life, their estimate of values, to the stern task which they have undertaken.

The most remarkable feature of the impressive facts in our national life is that it contributes an important chapter to the history of the world. Our enemies, seeing that we were fat of body, made the mistake of believing that we were fat of mind. Of that gross misconception we have disabused them pointedly in the past year. We are continuing the process of disillusioning them on the battle-fields of France.—New York Evening Mail.

Rigid Economy Necessary

Only by Elimination of Waste Can Transportation of Necessities Be Efficient

The following cable has been transmitted to Canada from the food controllers' conference in London:

"Resolved that while the increased production of the United States and Canada rendered it possible to release some of the restrictions which had been imposed by the food controller upon all our people, yet it is absolutely necessary that rigid economy and elimination of waste in the consumption and handling of all food stuffs, as well as increased production, should be maintained throughout the European allied countries and in North America; that it is only by such economy and elimination of waste that the transportation of the foodstuffs from America to Europe can be accomplished, and stocks of food stuffs can be built up in North America as insurance against the ever present danger of harvest failure."

At little cost one can get a small bottle of freezeon at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of any corn, callus or bunion without a scalpel or the danger of infection. This new device is extremely compound and dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue. Just think! You can lift off your corns painlessly in a few moments. Who would have thought it possible to poison a small bottle for you from his whole-sale drug house?

The Only Possible Peace

The only peace worth the making or the taking is one which will open a new road free of toll to all people, whether great or small, safeguarded by the common will, and need be, by the common power, for the further progress of humanity. —Mr. Asquith.

Dominion Government Presents Young Eskimo Interpreter

With Gold Watch

A presentation that broke all records, geographical or historical, was made a few weeks ago at Fort McPherson, Peck River, the native interpreter who has just reached Edmonton with the return of the Arctic mail carriers from the summer trip to the Arctic. At McPherson on July 1st, the Canadian native interpreter who accompanied the Eskimos to Edmonton last year and served them as an intermediary between them and the courts of justice, was presented with a gold watch and chain, the gift of a government official.

The young Eskimo, who was impressed despite its simplicity, was made by the light of the all-night sun at 2 a.m., and Inspector Phillips, of the Herschell Island detachment, presented the gift.

The watch, a handsome solid gold timepiece, bore the R.N.W.M.P. monogram on the outer case, and was inscribed inside with the following:

"Presented to the Canadian government by Havilene for services rendered Fort Norman patrol for murderers of Fathers Rouvier and Le Roux, 1915-1917."

Inspector Phillips told Havilene that the Government in behalf of the "Big King, Big Chief," was very glad to recognize his services in this way, and the dusky recipient of the nation's thanks was manifestly proud of the nice-looking ticking machine.

After giving the young Eskimo all the necessary information as to how to use it, the guests at the presentation were Sgt. Clay, Constables Cook and Cook, and A. L. Sawle and George A. Slater, of the Northern Trading company.

Vegetarian Logic

A vegetarian whose family was cut off went to breakfast in a restaurant and took a seat next to a stranger. The vegetarian took occasion to advertise his creed by telling the stranger that all meat was injurious, and that the human diet should consist entirely of vegetables.

"Well," replied the stranger, "I seldom eat meat."

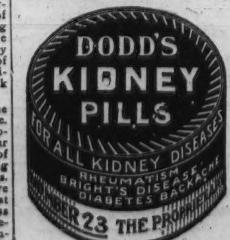

"You just now ordered eggs," said the vegetarian. "An egg is practical, and it eventually becomes a bird."

"The kind of eggs I eat never become birds," answered the vegetarian.

"Impossible!" cried the vegetarian.

"What kind of eggs do you eat?"

"Principally boiled ones," said the stranger.

Kaiser's Gift to T. R. Smashed by Sailor

Oyster Bay Citizens Want No Hemispherical Picture in Their Neighborhood

Willie slow pony of Emperor William, presented by him to Colonel Theodore Roosevelt several years ago, came to grief when a party of citizens visited the home of Mrs. C. H. Pollitz at Oyster Bay.

The picture had been given to the public library by the colonel, and hung there until after the sinking of the Lusitania, when it was relegated to the basement. Mr. Pollitz paid $35 for the painting to the trustees, and became its owner. The incident was forgotten until the death of Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt, and then villagers recalled it. They organized a public Sunday and going to the home of Mrs. Pollitz, demanded the picture.

Mrs. Pollitz wanted to give it up, but Mr. Pollitz wanted to keep it. In the struggle on a balcony for its possession, the portrait fell among the villagers gathered in the street. A sailor promptly put his foot through it.

With the Fingers!
Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corn, or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply on the corn a few drops of freezeon, says a Cincinnati authority.

At little cost one can get a small bottle of freezeon at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of any corn, callus or bunion without a scalpel or the danger of infection. This new device is extremely compound and dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue. Just think! The area of the Pacific Ocean has been estimated at about 70 million square miles. It is broadcast at the equator, where it measures 10,000 miles from east to west, and greatest length from north to south is 7,350 miles. Its depth is greater than that of the Atlantic, the average being about 2,530 fathoms (15,180 feet). The deepest place is the Marianas Trench, where the depth there is 32,088 feet, or more than six miles.

The Kaiser's Dream

The Kaiser, speaking to Dr. Arthur Davis, his American dentist, as quoted by the latter in the New York World:

"From my childhood I have been under the influence of five men: Alexander, Julius Caesar, Theodoz II, Napoleon and Frederick the Great. These five men dreamed their dream of a world empire; they failed, but I dream of a world empire, and I shall succeed!"

"Here I am, nearly 60 years of age, and must rebuild the world of Europe!"
